Programme questions: proposed medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005 (item 3 (b))

Programme 17. Economic and social development in Latin America and the Caribbean

1. At its 16th meeting, on 19 June 2000, the Committee considered programme 17, Economic and social development in Latin America and the Caribbean, of the proposed medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005 (A/55/6 (Prog.17)).

2. The representative of the Secretary-General introduced programme 17 and responded to questions raised during the Committee's consideration of the programme.

Discussion

3. Support was expressed for the programme. It was considered that the proposed programme described the essential steps which needed to be taken in order to face the challenges of economic and social development in the region. In the interest of avoiding duplication and waste, however, the Economic Commission for Latin America and the Caribbean (ECLAC) should focus in areas where its comparative advantages were strong.

4. The change in the ECLAC organizational structure was welcomed, as was its proposed subprogramme structure. The mainstreaming of the gender perspective in regional development was also welcomed.

5. It was stated that adequate reference to major international conferences should have been included in the overall orientation of the programme.

6. It was felt that the narrative of some subprogrammes was short and did not indicate how the Commission would carry out its activities. There should have been adequate references to measures for the promotion of investment and financing and the problems of external debt. It was also observed that the approach to drug production and trafficking should have been more comprehensive and the programme should have taken into account the relationship between drugs and crime, incorporating in the strategy an integrated approach to crime and drug issues. Furthermore, the challenges arising from privatization and deregulation of economic activities, and the regulatory role of the State in controlling or monitoring the unfavourable impact of liberalization with a view to protecting consumers, especially vulnerable groups, was not adequately reflected.

Conclusions and recommendations

7. The Committee recommended that the General Assembly adopt programme 17 of the medium-term plan for the period 2000-2005, subject to the following modifications:

Programme questions: proposed medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005 (item 3 (b))

Programme 18
Economic and social development in Western Asia

1. At its 25th meeting, on 26 June 2000, the Committee for Programme and Coordination considered programme 18 (Economic and social development in Western Asia) of the proposed medium-term plan for the period 2002-2005.

2. The representative of the Secretary-General introduced the programme and responded to questions raised during the Committee's consideration of the programme.

Discussion

3. Support was expressed for the programme.

4. Concern was expressed on some formulations in the programme. It was observed that the Economic and Social Commission for Western Asia (ESCWA) was neither qualified nor authorized to pass negative judgements on member States. This needed to be revised to bring the narrative in line with the mandate of ESCWA.

5. It was stressed that there was no legislative agreement on the concept of good governance. As a result, no reference to this concept should have been included in the document.

6. It was stated that the indicators of achievement did not clearly reflect the priorities of the programme. They should have placed emphasis on the issues of water and energy. It was noted that the indicators of achievement appeared to focus
